"We had a great experience participating in JCS2023: Imaging Cell Dynamics. We were impressed by the active participation of the attendees, and the meeting's engaging content and networking opportunities made it a valuable event for showcasing our technology."

Meeting information

Following on from our successful meeting in 2023, we are delighted to announce a second iteration of our Imaging Cell Dynamics meeting to be held in 2026. This meeting will provide a unique opportunity to bring together experts working at the interface between cell biology and imaging, with a focus on researchers who use advanced light and electron microscopy approaches, and novel image analysis tools.

The meeting will feature talks from an outstanding set of invited speakers with opportunities for short talks and poster presentations.

We are excited to showcase the rapid and exciting progress in this field, and to nurture this growing community.

"The Company of Biologists meeting we attended was well organised, with a line-up of world class scientific speakers, presenting the very cutting edge of research. The agenda was varied, and the inclusion of fabulous dinners enabled discussions with a wider variety of attendees, in a more relaxed setting. I'd definitely attend again."
